

The Pakistani Diaspora

Corridors of Opportunity and Uncertainty

Edited by
Rashid Amjad

Lahore School of Economics

© 2017 Lahore School of Economics

All rights reserved.

ISBN: ___-___-____-__-__

First printing November 2017.

The views expressed in this volume are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Lahore School of Economics.

Lahore School of Economics

Intersection of Main Boulevard, Phase VI, DHA, and Burki Road

Lahore 53200, Pakistan

Tel.: +92 42 3656 1230

www.lahoreschoolofeconomics.edu.pk/

Preface

The essays in this volume are a valuable contribution to the growing literature on the Pakistani diaspora. The book is being published at a time of mounting debate over the future of international migration and ensuing anxiety among migrants – including those from Pakistan – as this debate takes on racial and religious overtones. In the Middle East, where a majority of the Pakistani diaspora works (albeit as temporary workers), the slowing down of the region’s economies and envisaged structural changes have raised concerns as to whether these labor flows will slacken and return migration will accelerate. This would likely have negative consequences for Pakistan in terms of domestic employment and, more important, the flow of remittances, which play a critical role in supporting its growing external account deficit.

With its focus on the Pakistani diaspora, this volume breaks new ground in many respects. It does not merely analyze the growth of this diaspora in a historical context, but also provides valuable insights into the cost and benefits of migration – to migrants, their families in the new host country and the families they leave behind.

The essays in this volume were first presented and discussed at an international conference organized by the Lahore School of Economics in 2016, which brought together a range of scholars and analysts from Pakistan and abroad. We owe a debt of gratitude to the authors who, despite their pressing engagements, developed their presentations further and incorporated the editor’s comments and suggestions.

Several background papers were also prepared for the conference, including one on the British Pakistani diaspora (by Laraib Niaz and Sidla Nasir) and one on the Pakistani diaspora in North America (by Naimal Fatima). These are being published separately as working papers.

I would also like to acknowledge the valuable contribution of Maheen Pracha who has done an excellent job in preparing the manuscript; her editing has drawn praise from all the authors.

Finally, my hope is that the publication of this volume and the establishment of the Centre on International Migration, Remittances and Diaspora (CIMRAD) at the Lahore School of Economics will provide a much-needed boost to the nascent field of diaspora studies in Pakistan.

Rashid Amjad
November 2017
Lahore School of Economics

Contents

1 Introduction: An age of migration	1
Rashid Amjad
2 The making of the Pakistani diaspora	23
Fareeha Zafar
3 The Pakistani diaspora in the United States	47
Michael Kugelman
4 The Pakistan–Europe corridor	75
Fareeha Zafar
5 Anti-immigration policies: The most serious threat to Europe	91
Phillipe Fargues
6 The European refugee crisis	103
Yannos Papantoniou
7 The Pakistani diaspora in the Gulf	111
Nasra M. Shah
8 The cost of migration from Pakistan to Saudi Arabia and the UAE	137
Rashid Amjad, G. M. Arif and Nasir Iqbal
9 Workers’ remittances and the Pakistan Remittance Initiative	161
Asma Khalid
10 The impact of transnational marriages on Pakistani spouses in Britain	177
Marta Bolognani
11 Pakistani diaspora communities in Norway: Part of a transnational social field for how long?	197
Martha Bivand Erdal
12 The political success of the British-Pakistani diaspora	225
Parveen Akhtar
13 Circuits of knowledge: Learning from the Pakistani academic diaspora and teaching them in return	237
S. Akbar Zaidi
14 Transnational business and investment possibilities: The role of Pakistan’s diaspora	249
Tariq Saigol

15 Engaging with diasporas: Lessons from China and India	255
Piyasiri Wickramasekara
16 Migration and development: Some key lessons	287
Manolo Abella
17 Engaging diasporas in development	303
Ibrahim Awad
Index	323